

Leopard Class Newsletter

In our English lessons this week, we have started writing our innovated versions of 'The Tiger Who Came to Tea'. The children have been thinking carefully about punctuating their sentences correctly by choosing whether to use a full stop, a question mark or an exclamation mark. Good job, Leopards!

In maths we have been using our knowledge of part-whole models to help us finding missing number in a sentence. We have also been counting coins by starting with the coin with the biggest value and adding on the smaller amounts. Great work!

In our 'Save our Seas' topic, we have been learning about plastic pollution and how we can reduce, reuse or recycle things to help our environment. We also went on a litter pick around the school to reduce the amount of plastic in our school grounds which might otherwise have caused harm.

In RE this week, we enjoyed learning about Sukkot. The children decorated a sukkah, listened to stories, sang songs and talked about being thankful and welcoming others. We loved seeing their creativity and enthusiasm.
