

Outstanding Otters

This week in English, Otters have been completing the innovation stage of their newspaper reports. The children have also been editing and improving their writing. The week has ended with the children planning and beginning their own report based on a volcano eruption. This will give the children the opportunity to bring in some of their learning from their previous topic Earthquakes and Volcanoes.

In Maths, the children have been developing their knowledge of adding and subtracting fractions. For this, the children have needed to change either one of the fractions or both by finding a common multiple. Otters have ended the week adding mixed numbers.

In P.E., the children have continued to enjoy Orienteering and have worked well in a team to communicate their ideas and problem solve.

Otters have now been introduced to their new guided reading book which is "Holes," by Louis Sachar. Poor Stanley has been found guilty of a crime he didn't commit and has been sent to Camp Green Lake - a juvenile detention centre. However, there is no lake - just an empty, barren landscape. He even has to get up and have breakfast at 4:30 before going out with the other boys to dig holes.

Well done this week for earning a certificate to: Rori, Jaycee, Sophie

Have a lovely weekend,

Mrs Gittens
