

CANDY JAR BOOK CLUB

SPRING EDITION

TENBURY PRIMARY

Dear Parents/carers,

We wish you a very warm welcome to this, seasonal Candy Jar Book Club magazine and we hope you enjoy browsing through it with your children.

One of the main aims with this partnership with the school is to encourage your children to write stories/poems and have them published in a book with all the profits going to the school.

They will be able to engage with real authors to discuss how to become an author, discuss the writing of stories, and possibly work with an author on a new chapter or story.

Please enjoy browsing the books on offer and, if you wish to order any of them, you can indicate this on the attached form and send with your payment to school.

We look forward to a long and happy partnership with you, your children and the school.

As spring creeps up on us, this could be a good opportunity to obtain some exciting presents at club discount prices.

With our best wishes,

Shaun Russell and Alan Stott

Write a beach setting
Betsy Hird Year 3

Suddenly I noticed my friends back had gone and I started them happily. and I said "fish" I said so as quick as a flash I eagerly put my stuff down and went in. I said
"can we play catch?" I said they said "yes" so after that we discovered, a heron, a jellyfish and a duck with a long neck.

LI. To write a diary entry

2nd January 1872

Write a Diary entry

Molly Marchant Year 4

Dear Diary,

You won't believe what happened to me yesterday. Late at night, I was sitting at my desk writing my weather reports when the loud, noisy villagers started cheering! My hands were on my face, my eyes were wide open and I had clenched teeth. It was so hard to work with all the people shouting and cheering! I thought, "I ^{wonder} when the noisy villagers will stop being so loud!"

Minutes before midnight, the villagers were getting too loud so I ^{closed} ~~shut~~ the window. But guess what happened next? I heard an ear-bleeding CRASH! Unfortunately, just after that the window opened again and the candle blew out. Great.

I to write a myth in role

I am Pandora. I was the first mortal female that was created. Zeus the king of the Gods created me and other goddesses gave me different qualities. Zeus sent me to Epimetheus with a box which was decorated in the most exquisite gems I had ever seen. He had forbidden me from opening it but I was feeling dejected that I wasn't allowed to open the crate.

I arrived at Epimetheus's home while feeling a little bit nervous. So I knocked on his door with a rat-a-tat-tat on that windless, relaxing evening. He opened the door and invited me inside. After a while of chatting to each other we ended up getting married. We were really enjoying living together that I totally forgot all about the box. Until, I remembered about it.

I asked my husband Epimetheus if I could open the box but he kept telling me no. He said that the king of the Gods Zeus told us not to disobey him and open the box. So I did not open the crate as I was told not to until one day.

A few weeks later, on a dark miserable morning Epimetheus was going to talk to Zeus. While I was thinking about that crate I could not take it any longer. I just had to open the box so I went to search for it. Turns out, Epimetheus hid it in the kitchen cabinet. So I snatched the box and opened it just a crack. I heard many little voices all singing in harmony. I calmed down after hearing those magnificent voices.

I thought that if the voices were that beautiful then whatever is in it wouldn't be that horrible. Then I remembered Epimetheus telling me to obey the Gods.

I thought twice about opening the chest but I couldn't help myself so I opened it whole. What I had just done changed mankind forever. Everything that was evil flew out like sickness, pain, envy and hunger. They were black with fangs and had this horrifying shriek. That left me sitting in despair. Just thinking about it scared me. Until one last thing came out hope.

"Dobby will show you," replied Cornelius. Just then a pair of yellow eyes, ^{a long crooked nose} and large, bat-like ears emerged from the ceiling. "He's a house elf," Cornelius explained. Oscar had no idea that this was an elf unless ~~xxx~~ the 8/12/22 explained. Oscar thought of elves as tiny people in red hats, but Dobby certainly was not wearing one. He was wearing an old, dirt-smothered pillow-case creature?" asked Oscar.

"Hang up!" Dobby squeaked. He led Oscar and Fin into a corridor. Oscar was now beginning to ponder and wonder ever going to get there, they had now been walking for the spiral stair cases and through never ending corridors came to a halt. They had stopped in the most unusual bathroom. Dobby hurriedly, Dobby began turning all of. Then suddenly, the floor gave way. Oscar, Dobby and Fin falling at full speed down a green, slimy chute. Oscar was dead and he did it with a thud, he tasted blood.

and felt like he had broken every single bone in his body. There was ringing in his ears and an extremely painful pins and needles feeling in his arm. Dobby however, landed on his feet just in time to catch Fin. "I don't think I can carry on," cried Oscar. "But you have to!" explained Fin.

"I can't I think I've broken my arm!" said Oscar whilst rolling around on the cold stone floor. Dobby flicked his fingers. A silver spark shot out of them and Oscar's arm felt fine. "Actually, I'm coming with!" stated Oscar.

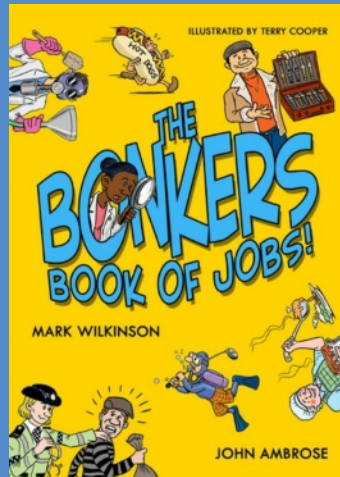

The three of them ~~creaked~~ crawled through the chafed marble tunnel - which moved in and out and led them to a cave that only Dobby knew about. "Where is the evil creature and what is it?" asked Oscar.

"It's a basilisk (a giant serpent) and it lives in a cave, that's where we're going," ~~he~~ squeaked Dobby, but was rudely interrupted by an ear-piercing ~~screech~~ hiss echoing round the tunnel. "Quick!" shouted Dobby "Run!"
